THE UNITARIANS

Of Berkeley Without a Home of Worship

MAY HOLD A PICNIC ON EVERY SUNDAY

At Which Services Will Be Held and to Which the Public Will Be Invited.

Picnic Services.

The Unitarians of Berkeley are in a quandary, Stiles Hall, the University building where they hold their weekly services, will be closed during the summer months, with the other buildings, and they have found themselves without a house of worship.

The result is that two very novel and interesting propositions have been made to bridge over the difficulty. One is to petition the Board of Regents of the University of California for the use of Ben Weed's ampitheater for open air services, and the other, which was made under the belief that the Regents would refuse because of their non-sectarian policy, is to hold Sunday religious picnics in lieu of the regular Sunday services.

The proposition to hold religious picnics was made by Charles A Keeler, the Berkeley poet, who saw a possible objection from the Regents in granting the privilege of the College grounds to a religious sect. The poet's idea of combining Sunday services and an ordinary week day picnic met with considerable approval by the church members, and a committee has been appointed to investigate the feasibility of the project.

When the matter came up before the meeting of the Unitarians in Stiles Hall yesterday morning it occasioned not a little discussion. The proposal to send in a petition to the Regents for the use of the college grounds reopened the old wounds of the controversy between the Unitarian and orthodox churchmen which stirred Berkeley last year. The noisy discussions of the past as to whether it was unjust to other religious denominations in Berkeley to allow Unitarians to use Stiles Hall, which is a University building, were recalled, and the Unitarians decided that it would be inadvisable to risk another war of words by requesting the privilege of the University grounds.

The Berkeley Unitarian Society has passed through more than one such battle, and though it has apparently not suffered in the controversies, its members are not anxious to start the contest anew.

The orthodox pastors of Berkele have protested in no uncertain words against the use of Stiles Hall by the Unitarians, but the matter has never been formally brought before the Board of Trustees of the hall, though the Rev. Dr. Bentley of Trinity Methodist Church, one of the strongest protestants against the present Sunday morning use of the building, is one of the Trustees.

Dr. Bentley, who is now in Europe, took the position that as Stiles Hall is closely connected with the University, no church should have a preferred right to its use. "Certainly," he said, during the last controversy, "preference should not be given to a sect which denies the divinity of Christ, a doctrine fundamental to the Christian faith."

The Rev. H. A. Ketchum, D. D., of the First Presbyterian Church, agreed with Dr. Bentley and declared that as Stiles Hall was given to students "for religious purposes," it could not properly be used for the services of the Unitarian Church, which Dr. Ketchum declared was "directly antagonistic to evangelical religion."

The Unitarians fear that these old objections will be raised again, and their committee will probably see how the land lays before taking any definite steps toward using the amphitheater.

Rev. Dr. Ketchum when seen regarding the proposition, said: "My position in regard to Stiles Hall is unchanged, though I should like to be informed regarding the present matter. However, I am unable to see just how use of the grounds can be made in that way."

The result will probably be the adoption of the Sunday picnic proposition, though the matter has not yet been decided. The committee to which the affair has been intrusted consists of Charles A. Keeler and Mrs. Wattles, a prominent Unitarian.—S. F. Chronicle.

MR. WATKINSON

Of the Contra Costa Water Company Seriously Injured.

Thrown Twice in a Day.

Colonel Watkinson, superintendent of the Contra Costa Water Company, was thrown from his horse in Bollinger canyon, near Haywards, yesterday afternoon and his left leg was broken above the ankle. As he was being brought into town the horses bolted and he was again thrown into the road.

Mr. Watkinson was riding through Bollinger canyon on horseback when his horse missed his step. Becoming frightened, he reared and threw his rider with great force. Watkinson's leg was cut as well as broken. As he was lying in the road, Henry Peters rode up with his team and lifted the injured man into his wagon. As Peters approached Haywards the pole of his wagon broke and his horses ran away. They flew into Haywards and, as they entered Main street, the vehicle was turned over and Colonel Watkinson was again thrown into the road. He was carried into a near-by drugstore, and, a doctor being sent for, the injured limb was attended to.

The Colonel is one of the most active men in the management of the Contra Costa Water Company and is known as an expert horseman. Owing to his serious injuries he will be confined to his home for several weeks. He met with no further accident while being brought to his home on Merrimac street.

A Task For Hercules.

A party of about thirty young men gathered this morning on the upper deck of the ferry steamer plying between San Francisco and Sausalito. They were members of the Pacific Coast Branch of the College Y. M. C. A., returning from the redwoods of Cazadero, where they had been holding their annual summer conference.

The steamer was nearing her slip on the San Francisco side of the bay and the young men were about to bid one another good-bye when a leader suggested a parting song. Accordingly all joined in singing the well known "God be With You When We Meet Again," and as the impressive chorous rang out upon the breeze several bespectacled old ladies stopped reading their newspapers and looked toward the sky.

One rather young lady who had been intently eyeing the party ever since she first noticed them at Sausa- [illegible] to make her aggressively inquisitive and she said to a gentleman seated next her:

"Beg pardon, do you know who those young men are?"

"Yes," replied the gentlemen addressed, "they are young men of Berkeley, Stanford and California Colleges who are endeavoring to be good Christians as well as good students."

"What an enormous task they have undertaken," murmured the lady as she resumed her study of the young men's countenances with renewed interest.

Mr. and Mrs. Hale and Mr. J. Roberts of Martinez, who has been visiting Berkeley returned home yesterday.

PATRIOTIC BOYS

They Notice a Portuguese Flag Flying

AND ORDER IT HAULED DOWN AT ONCE.

And an American Flag which they Furnished put on top and they were Obeyed.

Hauled Down a Portuguese Flag.

There was considerable excitement during the feast of the Holy Ghost last night, which is being celebrated on Nineteenth avenue and East Nineteenth street, by the Portuguese population, when three young men, members of Captains Cobbledick's Boys' Brigade, dashed in among the worshippers, and demanded that the Portuguese flag be hauled down from a flagstaff near by, and the stars and stripes put in its place.

The Pentecostal service was in progress at the time with 350 people in in costume going through the ritual, 150 of whom were girls, and 200 men.

Manuel Enos was the proprietor of the property on which the feast was being held, and the young men, whose names are A. F. Hobson, H. Woodcock and M. D. Bird, ordered him to replace the flying colors by the United States flag at once.

Enos hesitated, but the assemblage seemed dazed by the audacity of the invaders, and the Portuguese flag was drawn down. The boys furnished a Union flag, and placed it at the top of the pole above the foreign colors. After that they departed, and the service was resumed.

Fathers Gloria and Fernandez were in charge of the services, but did not figure in the affair, which was over in a few moments.

Lorin.

Mrs. C. E. Goden obtained a wheel from a cyclery on Saturday and started out for a ride. On the way she was unfortunate enough to get thrown and sustained a fracture of her ankle. Dr. Rowell was called and gave the necessary medical assistance.

The dance given by the Lorin Choral Society, on Friday evening was a success. The hall was handsomely decorated and there were enough present to fill the room comfortably. Robert Alwyn was the floor manager and with his assistants conducted the affair in good style. Particular attention was paid to visitors and every one was provided with partners.

It was a real sociable affair and passed off to the delight of all those who were fortunate enough to be present.

Kirby Smith, the druggist, and wife have returned from a visit to San Leandro.

Richard Wheeler Found.

Another mysterious disappearance story was cleared up last night. Six [illegible] Richard Wheeler left town suddenly, and nothing was heard of him until yesterday. On the day he left he was sent to purchase some goods and failed to return. A letter was received by the lodging house keeper, Mrs. Knapp, yesterday, that was written by Wheeler. He is in Sonoma county, and promises, as soon as he is able to return and see his friends here. The lodging house keeper refused to divulge the details of his whereabouts. He was prominently identified with Y. M. C. A. work, and great surprise was expressed at his sudden dropping out.

The Board of Education will meet in regular session at the Town Hall this evening. This being the first meeting in the month considerable business will be transacted.

As the 9 o'clock engine on the local train from the city was switching at North Berkeley on Saturday morning, a switch bar broke, leaving the engine on one track and the tender on another. On going ahead the track was spread. This caused a detention of the train about 20 minutes before the workmen could get everything adjusted.

The two o'clock local train on Saturday, brought a large crowd of young people to Berkeley, to witness the baseball game between the Berkeley and the Palo Alto Grammar nines. They were filled with enthusiasm and during the game it was often allowed to run over. The outcome was a score of 20 to 8 in favor of the Berkeley team, over which our boys are very much elated.

A DELIGHTFUL PARTY

Given to Miss Marie Cassabone

BY FRIENDS IN BERKELEY AND ORINDA PARK

On Saturday Evening Last at her Father's Home in West Berkeley.

Surprise Party.

On Saturday evening last a number of the friends of Miss Marie Cassabone, marched in a body to her residence on the corner of Sixth and Delaware streets, for the purpose of tendering her a surprise party. The young lady was taken completely by surprise, but received her presence of mind in a moment and invited her friends into the house, where soon they were all enjoying themselves thoroughly and just while the mirth was at the highest, joyous shouts were heard from the outside, and all hands rushed to the door and their eyes fell upon a large four horse Caryall loaded with bright and happy young people from Orinda Park, who had come upon the same mission as the West Berkeley people to surprise Miss Marie.

They were at once invited into the house, and each one carried a large hamper which contained good things to eat. These were deposited in the kitchen and the Orinda Park people joined those of West Berkeley who were already present and the stream of merriment rolled on. Songs were sung speeches were made, stories were told, and games were played.

Lithe and graceful feet kept time to the music of the mazy waltz as the young couples, their faces flushed with pleasure and their souls filled with joy.

The garden connected with the Cassabone residence is a bower of beauty by day with its long, shady arbors covered with vines and flowers and its many little nooks surrounded by beautiful flowers, but it presented a most beautiful appearance in the evening when it was lighted with myriads of lighted Chinese lanterns whose soft light shining down upon the plants and and flowers made it look like a fairy bower.

At midnight long tables were set 'neath the arbors, and they fairly groaned with the good things that were spread upon them, and when the young people marched from the house, and took their seats at the table, an artist would have had a fortune in his grasp, could he but have painted the scene as it was. The meal was a merry one, and over an hour elapsed before a move was made to leave the table, during which time the health of Miss Marie, who is very popular among her friends, was drank again, and again, and bands of friendship were cemented among those who were heretofore strangers, that will only be broken by death.

Among the many who were present the GAZETTE's scribe was only able to obtain the following:

Orinda Park—[illegible] Mary Kern, Annie Kern, Sarah Kern, Kittie Kern, Mary Ehlers, Lottie Brockhurst, Christina Lasserot, Mrs. Katie Esprasse.

Messrs. Willie Kern, Joseph Lasserot James Kerns, Rudolph Ehlers, Peter Ehlers, Eddie Silver, James Silver, Romeo Lasserot, Johnnie Lasserot, George Brockhurst, Charles White.

Berkeley—Charles Butterfield, Chuanrey Ingalls, Pharoah Jackson. Arthur Jackson, Frank Teague, George Davis, Ted Windrom, Theodore Holtz Sam Casabone, Pete Casabone, Felix Casabone Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Casabone and the hostess of the evening Miss Marie Casabone.

There was a bright light in the east, when the guests donned their wraps and bade Miss Marie good morning, wishing that she might always have as many warm friends as she has now, and that they might all enjoy as nice an evening under her roof again in the near future.

DEATH OF MR. ELLIS

A Young Theological Student of Berkeley Passes Away.

Death of a Student.

Thomas Coates Ellis, a native of England, aged 31 years, and 6 months, and a nephew of Mrs. Sarah Wright, died at her residence at 1734 Delaware street, at 10 o'clock this morning.

The deceased came to this country alone when he was but ten years of age, and took up his residence with his aunt. He attended school here, and afterwards entered the University. About three years ago he entered the Hackettstown college of New Jersey, and while there he had charge of the Methodist Episcopal Church, where he was well liked by the people and the congregation. While there he caught the la grippe which about one year ago turned into consumption.

About three months ago he returned to Berkeley hoping the change would do him good, but he came too late.

The funeral will take place tomorrow at 1:30 o'clock and the interment will take place in the Mountain View Cemetery.

A Narrow Escape.

A middle-aged lady very narrowly escaped being run over by the local train this morning. Those who witnessed the affair turned their heads away, being almost certain that the woman would be struck by the oncoming train. It was the train that leaves North Berkeley about 25 minutes past 8 o'clock. The lady was walking along the track from north to south between Addison and Center streets, with the intention of getting on board when it arrived at the Berkeley station. It is stated by observers that the bell was not ringing.

The first notice she had of the approach of the engine was the sound of three whistles blown when it was within 200 feet of her. She gave a jump and succeeded in escaping almost instant death by scarcely a foot's breadth.

The occurrence caused a considerable comment among the people about the station who witnessed the affair.

Golden Gate.

Court Shell Mound Social Club, Foresters of America held a picnic at Laurel Glen on Saturday. There was a good attendance, some going on the Nevada and California Railroad and others in teams. Tom Young succeeded in winning a basket of champagne by coming out ahead in the foot race. On the way back from the grounds James Cushing and William Burton were riding in a buggy and as the train passed by waved their handkerchiefs. This frightened the horse and he ran away throwing them into the ditch. They were somewhat bruised but not badly hurt.

The Corinthian Social Club held a domino party on Friday evening in Klinkner Hall. There were about 300 present in domino costumes. The grand march was led by Archie Beaman. Everything passed off smoothly and enjoyment reigned supreme.

Surprise Party.

Last Friday evening at the residence of Mrs. Lamp on Shattuck avenue near Cedar, a surprise party was given [illegible] the occasion marking the anniversary of both ladies' birthday.

After indulging in music and games for an hour or two the guests repaired to the dining room and partook of a sumptous repast.

At 12 o'clock the visitors congratulated Mrs. Boynton and Mrs. Zoble, and wished them many more such pleasant anniversaries and then departed for their homes after having spent a most enjoyable evening.

Among those present were Mr. and Mrs. Boynton, Miss Clara Boynton, Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Durgin, Mrs. Zoble, Mrs. F. H. Gilbert, Mrs. Holmes, Miss Sadie Isham, Mr. and Mrs. Lamp, Mrs. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. F. May, Mrs. Shepherd, Rev. J. Clarke Robbins, Mr. McFarland, Mr. and Mrs. Ray, Mr. and Mrs. A. Wirt and Nellie Zobel.

THE CONTEST IS OVER

Mrs. Wilkes Wins the First Prize

WHICH IS A TWO WEEK'S OUTING AT THE

Samuel Soda Springs and Miss Hamlin Wins the Second Prize.

Mrs. Wilkes' Wins.

The contest for the most popular school teacher closed this morning at 10 o'clock sharp, and Mrs. Wilkes of the San Pablo school, having received the highest number of votes is declared to be the winner of a two weeks outing at the Samuel Soda Springs where she will receive the very best there is in the land and many attentions that would otherwise cost considerable.

Mr. Morris, the proprietor of the Springs and his estimable wife, have informed the GAZETTE that the winner of the first prize would have two weeks of unalloyed pleasure when she visited the Springs and they have arranged so that she will be more than pleased with her visit. Excursions have been planned for her benefit and when she arrives at the Springs she will feel that she is among people whom she has known all her life. The people at the Springs have been watching this contest and they are very familiar with the names of the contestants.

The GAZETTE is pleased to know that it has been the instrument whereby at least one of our hard worked teachers of the public schools can have a couple of weeks pleasure amidst the arms of nature.

The school children and friends of Mrs. Wilkes have worked hard in her behalf and with them it was a work of love and we know that she feels grateful to them, not only because through their efforts she will be enabled to have a delightful time for a couple of weeks away from the school room and from all care, with nothing but pleasure to think of, but because it shows the affection in which she is held by the school children whose minds she is trainin

The second prize is a beautiful and costly hat, and one that is worthy to be worn upon the head of Miss Hamlin, the winner. She too has had the support of the school children and friends and they have never lagged one moment in their efforts to place her at the head of the list and keep her there. For a long time she was in the lead several thousand and then it was nip and tuck for weeks and continued so up to the last moment when the votes were counted.

In being second she has nothing to regret for her vote was a magnificent one, she receiving 65,214 votes, out of a total of 157,600 votes.

The number of votes cast was gratifying in this contest, and considerably more than we thought it would be. The other teachers all did well, and we hope that others will be successful in our next contest.

The vote stands to-day as follows:

MOST POPULAR TEACHER.
Mrs. Wilkes, San Pablo	67796
Miss Hamlin, San Pablo avenue school	65214
Miss Squires, Whittier	14023

Miss Blanchard has been quite successful since coming to Berkeley, and will open the new term with an increased number of pupils.

Berkeley vs. Palto Alto.

On Saturday last a match game of baseball took place between a nine from the Berkeley Grammar School and a nine from the Palo Alto Grammar School.

The game took place on the University campus, and the Berkeley boys were sent first to the bat and they scored four runs before they retired. The Palo Alto nine scored one run on the first inning on a passed ball.

In the second inning the Berkeley boys seemed to have sized up the Palo Alto pitcher, and they batted him all over the field.

In this inning four runs were scored and the Palo Alto boys got a goose egg.

The third, fourth and fifth innings resulted in giving the Berkeley boys 12 more runs and the Palto Alto had made only the one which they got on an error in the first inning. There were no further runs made on either side, until the ninth inning when the Berkeley boys scored 2 more runs making the game stand 23 to 1 in favor of Berkeley.

There was some good playing witnessed by the spectators of which there were a large number.

Steedman who played second for Berkeley distinguished himself by stopping several schorchers. The running catches of fly balls by Spencer were loudly applauded. The batting of Riggs, Spencer, Baxter, and Parker was phenomenal Parker caught for the first time behind the bat and he was congratulated by all of his friends.

Baxter pitched a star game, and only one run was made off him and only two men went to base on balls, Steedman at third put up a good game. Many of these boys will enter the High school next year and should enter the High School team. Lack of space prevents us from giving the score in full.

DEATH OF KATE FIELD.

Death has just removed one of the brightest women in America Miss Kate Field, who died at Honolulu on May 10th, of pneumonia. Miss Field was born in St. Louis in 1854. Her father and mother were able to give her rare educational advantages and through them she inherited brilliancy and versatility, her mother being a charming actress. Kate was educated in Boston, Italy and England, and traveled all over the world. She was essentially cosmopolitan. After her classical education she gave special attention to musical studies, becoming a pupil of Garcia and William Shakespeare, the English tenor. She made several long visits to Europe, and during her stay abroad became the correspondent of the New York Tribune, Philadelphia Press, and Chicago Tribune, besides doing work for periodicals.

In 1874, she appeared as an actress in Booth's Theater, New York, where her dramatic talent asserted itself. Since leaving the stage she has devoted her talents and energies to lecturing and journalism, in which she achieved the greatest success. Among her published works are "Planchette's Diary," "Adelaide Ristori," "Mad on Purpose," "Pen Photographs of Charles Dicken's Readings," "Haphazard," and "Ten days in Spain," and "History of Bell's Telephone."

She founded the National Review several years ago, and in 1890 began the publication of her famous Kate Field's Washington in the national capitol. She remained the editor, publisher and sole proprietor of this unique weekly publication, the only one in the world which bore a women's name.

An attack of grip in 1896 left her unfitted for her editorial work, and on this account she was compelled to suspend publication of her paper and travel for her health, doing occasional lecturing and light journalistic work. Last fall Miss Field was sent to the [illegible] as special correspondent, and was so engaged when removed by death. During her visit in San Francisco while en route to the Islands, Miss Field was given her last public reception at the Press Club. She was entertained by the ladies engaged in active newspaper work in the city, and the reception goes into the history of the club as one of the notable events held in its rooms.

MAY BE SUICIDE.

Notwithstanding the fact that hundreds of armed men have been on the trail of Dunham, who is six times a murderer, nothing has yet been heard of him, and the only thing that leads to the fact that he is in the mountains, where he is being hunted is the fact that the horse he rode away after committing the horrible murders was found grazing in the mountains by the officers.

Shortly after the horse was discovered a shot was heard in the canyon some distance off. Since that time vultures have been noticed circling over the spot from which the shot sounded, and the the theory of suicide has been advanced, and it is not an improbable one. About two years and a half ago, the writer was at the mining camp known as Vanderbilt on the Mohave desert, and close to the boundary line of Nevada, where there are a number of rolling hills.

One day a couple of men quarreled and one shot the other and then started off over the hills. A posse started after him at once and failed to find him. They trailed him into a rocky canyon and while there heard a shot, but could not locate it and they returned to camp. The next day buzzards were seen flying over the spot in the direction from where the shot was heard and a searching party went out and found the body of the murderer. He had taken his pistol and blown the top of his head off. The same may be the case in this instance and the fact of buzzards circling over and lighting near the spot where the shot was heard, leads us to believe that if a close search is made, the body of murderer Dunham will be found close to where the buzzards are making a rendezvous.

ON HALLOWED GROUND.

A typical Californian sun greeted the dawn of Memorial day, and lavish nature's emblems were in abundance.

The pretty feature of decorating the tenements of loved ones departed has become a general custom since the lamented John A. Logan outlined a plan of remembrance and reverence of the dead heroes of the Grand Army of the Republic, as well as fealty to the survivors. Charmed by the devotion of the comrades in arms, it has become a universal custom to decorate all graves irrespective of the causes leading to the demise of the occupants.

So Saturday in company with the plans of the veterans, thousands of others secured wreaths, emblems, designs, boquets and loose masses of flowers. None of the cemeteries were neglected, though only in a few was there a prearranged program of exercises. The absence of program, however, did not diminish the attendant sorrow and respect.

Besides the ceremonies at Mountain View and other cemeteries on the Alameda side of the bay, many persons of Berkeley went to various other places of interment including those of the San Francisco side.

The humblest spot was not overlooked, though the degree of decoration was a variable one. In the fullness of realization of the day and its sacred custom, each resting place in the hills of the silent majority bore the token of someone's remembrance that the grave equalized all conditions.

The people of St. Louis who were homeless by the recent cyclone which visited that city are destitute and many are in danger of starvation. There are people in California who have plenty and who can give to the poor and afflicted and now is the time that a tender chord in their hearts should be struck. Every city in the Union should respond promptly to the call for assistance in St. Louis, for we know not how soon fire or the elements may devastate some other city and maybe our own causing death and distress. Mass-meetings should be held in every town in the State and committees be appointed to solicit subscriptions for the benefit of the thousands who are now homeless, and who are upon the verge of starvation. Every little helps and a little given by a great many will swell the amount into a monster sum that will immediately ameliorate the conditions of those who are homeless and hungry as well as in many instances, fatherless, motherless, childless and without husbands or wives.

LADY DAY OF MARCH.

IMPORTANT IN BOTH SECULAR AND RELIGIOUS CALENDARS.

Why the 25th of March Is Venerated In England—What Happens If It Falls on Easter—Secularly Considered It Is the Beginning of One of the Year's Quarters.

The 25th of March is an important date both in the secular and religious calendars. It is the first quarter day in the year and as such comes home to most of us who have before our eyes the fear of payment of rent or the rarer pleasure of receiving it. The pay days in England have been arbitrarily fixed on Lady day, Midsummer day, Michaelmas day and Christmas day. Why? Nobody has been able to explain, unless it be that, arriving, as they do, near the end of each quarter, such important days are better as reminders of our duty to our landlord than any ordinary 30th or 31st of the month would be likely to be.

But it is, of course, as one of the great festivals dedicated to the Virgin (as its name, Lady day, or the old term, Our Lady's day, implies) that it has most importance, being the anniversary of the day when the angel Gabriel announced to the Virgin the mystery of the incarnation. Four other dates in the calendar share the honor of this title—namely, Feb. 2, or the Purification; July 2, or the Visitation, to commemorate the visit paid by the Virgin Mary to her cousin Elizabeth (instituted by Pope Urban VI in 1383); Sept. 8, or the Nativity, and Dec. 8, or the Conception.

But the 25th of March, or the Annunciation, is most regarded, as it is the anniversary, according to St. Augustine, of the great event to which it owes its origin, and the institution of this festival dates from very early times, since St. Athanasius makes mention of it in one of his sermons. An order of the Patriarch Nicephorus having given permission to break the fast of Lent if the Annunciation happened to fall on the Thursday or Friday of Holy week, a council convened at Toledo in 656 to preserve the complete observance of Lent and ordered the transference of the holiday to the week preceding Christmas. Some of the eastern churches still follow this decree, but the Syrians have fixed it on Dec. 1 and the Armenians on the 5th of January, while in the Latin church it has resumed its old place in the ecclesiastical calendar. In the western church, if it should fall in the Easter fortnight, its celebration is postponed until the second Monday following the festival.

Lady day of March has always been very highly observed in England. The synod of Worcester, 1240 A. D., by one of its canons forbade all servile work upon it, and this was afterward confirmed by various provincial and diocesan councils in all respects except agricultural labor.

In Rome, in the early part of the century, the day used to be celebrated with great pomp and splendor. We read that the windows were hung with crimson and yellow silk draperies and occupied by females in most gorgeous attire, while the churches were patrolled by the pope's horse guards in their splendid full dress uniforms, all of whom wore in their caps a sprig of myrtle as a sign of rejoicing. Before the service a procession appeared, preceded by another detachment of the guards mounted on black chargers, who rode forward to clear the way to the sound of trumpet and the beating of drums. This martial array was followed by a bareheaded priest on a white mule, bearing the host in a gold cup, at the sight of which everybody prostrated himself. The pope used formerly to ride on the white mule himself, and all the cardinals used to follow him in their magnificent robes of state, but as the eminentissimi were for the most part not very eminent horsemen they were generally fastened on lest they should tumble off.

It is not to be supposed that in this country the day would be without its tradition or superstition, so we find that it was considered a public misfortune if Lady day fell on Easter day, and the mediæval couplet runs:

> When our Lady falls in our Lord's lap,
> Then England beware of great mishap.

No less than 13 saints figure in the calendar on this day. Of these two were ladies—St. Dula and St. Ida; one Irishman, St. Cammin, abbot of Iniskelfra, and two Englishmen, St. Alfwolf, bishop of Sherborne, and St. William, the child martyr, of Norwich.

In The Calendar of the Anglican Church we find a statement showing how great in ancient times was the veneration for the Virgin in this country. Published in 1851, the book states that no fewer than 2,120 churches were named in her honor alone, besides 102 where she was associated with some other saint. On the authority of the same work, pictorially the Virgin is nearly always shown kneeling or seated at a table reading.

Of the great masters of all countries and ages whose genius has been lavished on this theme it will be sufficient to mention the brothers Van Eyck, Lochner of Cologne, Albert Duerer, Andrea del Sarto, Vasari, Louis and Annibal Carracci, Guido, Charles de la Fosse, Lesueur and Murillo.

In connection with the day it is permissible perhaps to conclude with a "chestnut" that owes its origin to the postoffice. It is said that a few years ago a country gentleman wrote a letter to a lady of rank in town and sent it through the post with the following address: "To the 25th of March, Duke street, London." The postman is said to have delivered it at the house of Lady Day, for whom it was intended.—Pall Mall Gazette.

The Noisy New Boarder.

"What was that awful noise in the room next to mine last night?"

"Oh, that was only the new boarder falling asleep."

TIM HOGAN'S FIREMAN.

His Remarkable Experience Because Tim Objected to His Color.

"Yes, siree," declared the railroad man, "those days that are past are the palmy days. I remember well when I fired engines that burned nothing but wood. I worked with an engineer, Tim Hogan was his name, who was one of the best on the line. I ain't going to give the name of the road nor nothing like that in telling you this tale, 'cause Hogan might get in trouble at this late day.

"In them days the engines had a draft through the smokestack which beat the world, and the engine Hogan run had the strongest draft of any engine on the road. Many's the time Hogan has had to stop his engine when she was puffing hard going up hill until I got and put a piece of sheet iron over the stack. What for? Why, to keep the fire under the boiler. The draft would draw it all out.

"Well, about the time I speak of the road wanted to introduce niggers as firemen. Of course we kicked, but it didn't do much good. Hogan kicked harder than anybody and swore he would kill any nigger the road put in his cab, and, not only that, he would throw his lifeless body into the firebox.

"One day Hogan comes to me just before we was goin out on our run and said, 'Jim, they've put a nigger in with me for this run, but I want you to go out with me, anyway.'

"'What's the use?' says I.

"'Well, you come on and don't ask no questions,' says Hogan.

"Hogan was a powerful and determined sort of a man, and I didn't want no trouble with him, so I climbed into the cab 'longside of the nigger when the train pulled out.

"Well, sir, I'll never forget that run. Hogan was mad and sulky, and he run that old engine with all the cars behind her just like he was way behind time. The nigger heaved wood into the firebox, and Hogan kept cussin him and tellin him to keep 'er hot. First thing I know we'd struck the bottom of the longest and heaviest grade on the line. Hogan's engine was drawing great chunks of wood from the firebox, and the stack looked like a volcano.

"Finally, when the nigger was leaning over to lift a piece of wood, Hogan hit him on the head with a monkey wrench, and he fell over just like he was dead. I was so scared I couldn't move, but Hogan got off his seat and chucked the nigger feet first into the firebox.

"I looked out of the window. I didn't want to see such a shocking sight. I happened to look at the smokestack, and I see the nigger's boots come out of it, then his socks, then his pants, and then he come feet first. When he rose from the stack, he yells, 'Goodby, Mr. Hogan.'

"We saw him light on the ground and jump up and run. I have never seen him since, nor neither has Hogan, but you can't get a nigger into Hogan's cab, and that's a fact."—Memphis Scimetar.

Off and on a Donkey.

When we were boys our first lessons in riding were taken on (and off) the back of a donkey. He was a creature of changeable, but, on the whole, amiable disposition. When his temper gave way before the trials to which we subjected it, we took many lessons in that gentle art of falling off which is so useful a supplement to the science of riding as more generally understood. We can make this avowal without any sense of shame now, for it happened once on a day forever memorable that our donkey kicked off our riding master himself in all his glory of boots and breeches.

Joe, the coachman's boy, declared all our theory of donkey riding to be incorrect, and it is significant that, though the donkey could kick off the riding master, boots and breeches and all, it entirely failed to shake Joe from his seat by any of its antics. But then Joe's method was entirely different from that of the riding master's. It was, indeed, so simple as scarcely to deserve the name of method, being contained in the single precept that you should sit as near the tail of the animal as possible. That was the sum total of his theory of donkey riding, and it worked to perfection in practice. Our uncle, who was in the navy, explained the mechanics of Joe's style of riding nautically. "It's as plain as a pikestaff," said he, "that when you've got all the weight in the stern the craft isn't likely to go down by the head."—Macmillan's Magazine.

TACKS.

Made In Great Variety and For Many Different Uses.

The best tacks are made of imported Swedish iron, the next grade of American soft steel and the cheapest of common American iron. Tacks are also made of copper. Some tacks are tinned, and for ship use tacks are galvanized. Tacks are made of sizes ranging from a half ounce to 24 ounces. The tack commonly used as a carpet tack is an eight ounce tack. A 24 ounce tack is about 1⅛ inch in length.

There are many kinds of tacks, made for a great variety of uses, and they are put up in many different forms. There are gimp tacks, looking glass tacks, upholsterer's tacks, trunk tacks, lace tacks, basket tacks, brush tacks, coffin tacks, shank tacks, lasting tacks, miner's tacks, cheesebox tacks and tacks for many other uses. Within the past dozen years the sale of double pointed tacks has increased tenfold with the greatly increased use of electrical wires. Double pointed tacks are also used for tacking down straw matting and for other purposes.

Tacks that are sold in papers are put up in full weights, half weights, and quarter weights, the weight indicating the size of the package. Almost all kinds of tacks are also sold in bulk in 25 pound and 50 pound boxes and in 100 pound kegs.

A one ounce tack machine will make in a day about 100,000 tacks altogether. The iron is fed into the machine in a plate which is of a width a little greater than the length of the finished tack, so as to allow of material to be upset for the head. An eight ounce machine will make about 200 pounds of tacks a day—1,250 to the pound, about 250,000 tacks. Tacks that are put up in papers are weighed out and the papers filled by hand. Comparatively few tacks are put up nowadays in tied up papers. They are put up mostly in little pasteboard boxes, which are packed in larger boxes and in turn in cases for shipment. A common tack package is a case weighing about 100 pounds.

The annual tack product of the country is estimated at about 20,000 tons. If these tacks were all put up in papers of the usual assortments of sizes and weights, the papers would number about 800,000,000, or something more than four papers per capita of the population.—New York Sun.

How Edison Learned to Tell Stories.

"It seemed like a waste of time," said a gentleman who passed an evening with Mr. Edison, in Norwalk, O., recently, "to hear Mr. Edison rolling off story after story, and demanding of all his acquaintances to tell him more, when we know how much information we might have received from him. I finally asked him how he got to be such a story teller. 'Well,' he replied, 'when I was quite a young man I was a telegraph operator during the war. I was stationed at St. Louis, which was a sort of distributing point for a large district, and when we would get our batch of stuff off and we still had several hours to put in I used to get pretty tired. Then we would begin to call up the operator at the other end of the line and gossip with him. I always liked stories, and if Chicago had a good one, he would wire it to me. Then I would send that off to Louisville and New York and Cincinnati, and hear them laugh over it by wiring back, "Ha, ha," over the wire. In this way we would get all the best stories there were going, and we would always write them out for the day men. It got to be a sort of passion after awhile, and has stuck to me ever since.'"—Cleveland Plain Dealer.
